Police Accuse Husband Of 'Dummy Run' Murder

WASHINGTON (AP) — Police have charged a young husband with the murder - knife slaying of a 65-year-old widow. They said he planned to use it - and future slayings - as a cover for the eventual murder of his wife.

The suspect, Harry E. Jarman, was recently released from hospital with a finding of no mental disease. Police quoted him as saying he planned to kill two or three more women after fatally stabbing Mrs. Olive Minard near her home Monday night.

A coroner's inquest Friday held Jarman, 20, for grand jury action on a homicide charge after police gave these details:

Jarman, a stock clerk in a supermarket, had plotted a series of street slayings, hoping to create a pattern that would throw police off when he reached his ultimate goal - the killing of his 19-year-old wife, Grace Victoria Jarman, mother of their children, Frankie, 2, and Phyllis, nearly a year old.

Jarman and his wife were planning a divorce but it was moving too slowly and he wished to marry an unidentified 19-year-old college student.

MAN RELEASED ON $2,000 BAIL AFTER FATAL VERNON FIGHT

VERNON (Staff)—One man is dead and another was charged with manslaughter today following a fight outside a Vernon hotel Thursday.

Dead is Herbert Raymond Alexis, brother of the chief of the Head of The Lake Indians. Stephen A. Marchand of the same tribe, was charged with manslaughter. He was released on $2,000 bail today.

The melee began on the men's side of a hotel tavern and moved to the sidewalk after waiters evicted Alexis, Marchand and another Indian from the hotel.

Marchand was alleged to have struck Alexis in the face causing him to fall and hit his head on the cement sidewalk. Police and ambulance were called when Alexis failed to regain consciousness and removed to hospital. He died late the same night.

A score of witnesses gave statements to the police on the accident which occurred at 5:30 p.m. A coroner's jury viewed the body this afternoon. An inquiry is expected next week.

Holiday Only Half Over But 15 Killed On Roads

At least 15 accidental deaths were counted across Canada before the three-day Easter holiday weekend was half over.

A survey by The Canadian Press shows 11 deaths on the country's roads and four other fatalities connected with weekend activities. Last year's toll for a three-day Eastern weekend was 37.

Five traffic fatalities marred observances in Quebec and two road deaths were recorded in each of Alberta, Ontario and New Brunswick.

Increased water hazard with warmer temperatures accounted for three deaths by drowning—two in Nova Scotia and one in Ontario.

Except for Alberta's two traffic fatalities, the four western provinces remained free of weekend accidental deaths.

In Ontario, two children were among the fatalities. A 20-month-old girl was drowned on an Onondaga Indian reserve and a seven-year-old girl was killed in a car accident. An Ontario man was struck down by a train.

The survey does not include normal deaths, known suicides, slayings or industrial accidents.

Tight Security Screen Clamped Round Gen. Salan

PARIS (Reuters) — The French government today clamped a tight security screen around former general Raoul Salan, chief of the terrorist Secret Army Organization, who was captured Friday in Algiers.

Salan, France's most decorated soldier, is being held in grim Sainte Prison here along with his former top aide, former General Edmond Jouhaud, condemned to death a week ago.

Salan's capture may have dealt a crippling blow to the Secret Army which has been using all-out terrorism to sabotage the government's plans for an independent Algeria.

Salan will be tried by a high military tribunal both for his army activities and for his leading part in the abortive Algerian military revolt a year ago.

He already is under death sentence passed in his absence, but French law grants him the right to another trial.

PRISONERS PROTEST Salan arrived at Sainte Prison just 12 hours after he was arrested in Algiers in a surprise police move made on a tipoff from a suspected terrorist held in custody.

His arrival at the prison touched off a violent pro-rightist demonstration by the other European prisoners, many of whom are held for terrorist crimes.

PARIS (Reuters) — Former General Raoul Salan has told Prison here that his Secret Army Organization was "collapsing around me," it was reported today.

Justice ministry sources said Salan also told his interrogators that most of his Secret Army followers were "hotheads" and "madmen."

Salan was questioned in a two-room apartment, said the former British diplomat had telephoned from Yalta Friday to ask "how things are in Moscow."

Maclean, who lives in Moscow with his wife and two sons and a daughter, has refused to comment on reports of his possible return to England.

Vancouver Sun's Story Reports 'Confession'

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Vancouver Sun in a copyright story quotes Charles Murrel Heathman that he killed a 10-year-old boy for whose murder he was twice sentenced to be hanged and then set free by the British Columbia Court of Appeal.

"I killed Donald Otley," The Sun quoted Heathman as saying in a written confession to the newspaper. "I enjoyed killing him. I prolonged it as long as I could and when he was dead I threw him away like a rag doll."

Donald Otley, a Vernon, B.C., boy, was slain in a Vernon boy.

The Sun says Heathman dictated and signed his confession case but throughout his trials, after hours of self analysis and his long stay in Death Row and in statements made after his release earlier this year, Heathman protested his innocence.

The newspaper says Heathman came to the Sun office Thursday looking for help in getting a job. He spent two hours in the newspaper office Thursday and six hours Friday telling his story.

The newspaper quoted Heathman as saying he had been drinking in a Vernon beer parlor the day of the slaying.

"Then something came over me," his statement said. "I had the urge to kill somebody—it did not matter if it was a boy or girl, a man or woman."

He met the boy in a Vernon park and talked with him for some time.

'Urge Was Coming'

"The urge was coming on me more and more. I figured that was it. . . . I wanted to get it over with."

"There was no sex. I'm no sex psychopath; no sex urge."

"I placed my hand over his mouth—my right hand—I had it over two or three minutes. The boy started crying. I did not have it over his nose at that time and he could still breathe."

"He was crying and asking me not to do it. I took my hand away again and waited until he came to. He had been unconscious for a while."

"He came to and then I grabbed him again and put my hand over his mouth. This time I covered up his nose too."

"He was struggling. I got a big thrill out of him struggling. He was on the ground with his head pressed back against the earth. I did not want to stop. . . ."

Recalls First Time

"The first time was in Tulsa, Okla., with a 10-year-old boy. We met in town and started walking along the highway outside Tulsa. I grabbed him by the throat and began choking him. If a car had not come along maybe I would have killed him. But I let go and he was semi-conscious. He took off and I took off. . . ."

"The other time was a couple of weeks ago. I was drinking with a man—I don't know him—in a beer parlor. We went up to his room and had a few drinks. The next thing I remember was grabbing him by the throat. He grabbed my hands and asked what was the matter with me. I came to and just took off. . . ."

"In all these cases there was no reason in the world for me to do anything. I had been drinking and I then I get these fits. . . ."

"I agree I'm in a vicious cycle over this. I can't leave the house alone."

"I think I'm two different people—three if you like. The first is me when I'm sober—a quiet man who likes to be alone and think never causing any trouble."

GETS 'SOCIAL' "The second is when I've had some drink and get social, talk and be friendly to everybody."

"And the third is the man I am when I get this urge—a killer's instinct I guess. . . ."

"I'm just sorry it was a boy. Afterwards I wished it had been

Church Bells Peal Out Celebrating Resurrection

JERUSALEM (AP)—Church bells rang joyously over Jerusalem today as the Holy City prepared to celebrate the Easter resurrection of Christ.

The great doors of the Church of the Holy Sepulchre creaked open at dawn for the day long rites in its hallowed vaults—to most Christians the exact place of Christ's crucifixion, burial and resurrection.

In the same crumbling church the pageantry of Good Friday came to a close Friday night.

Robed and bearded priests lifted an effigy of Christ's body from Calvary—now a richly ornamented altar lit by candles and clusters of hanging lanterns like warm golden circles—and withdrew the nails from the cross.

The procession carried the body, wrapped in a sheet, down the winding stone staircase to the stone of unction where beneath eight glowing lamps it was anointed and spiced.

FOLLOW BODY
A column of worshippers followed the body to its burial in the ornate marble tomb that still reveals some bare rocks from Christ's original sepulchre. The services were intoned in seven languages.

Overhead towered the immense dome of the church built by the Roman Emperor Constantine 1600 years ago on ground where the early Christians held secret worship, which was restored by the Crusaders. Here and in dozens of other churches Sunday pilgrims and

Arab Christians will attend Easter services to witness the awesome moment when "Christ is risen."

Jerusalem is filled with more than 8,000 visitors from all corners of the globe, including troops from the UN emergency force in the Gaza Strip.

More pilgrims are entering with special permit through the no-man's-land that splits Jerusalem between Israeli Jews and Jordanian Arabs. No Jews are allowed to cross the frontier, guarded by watchful troops on both sides.

CARRY BAGGAGE
Through the teeming bazaars and crooked stepped streets of the old walled city, Arab porters carried tourists' baggage on their heads to private homes, where many are putting up for Easter tide.

One of the streets is the Via Dolorosa (Street of Sorrows) where hundreds of pilgrims, some carrying heavy crosses, earlier Friday retraced Christ's last footsteps from Pilate's court to Calvary.

Three Students Win Free Trip To World Fair

Three excited Immaculate High School students are off Monday to Seattle for the World's Fair.

The trip is their award for gaining top honors in a high school Science Fair held at the school this week by the Grade Eight science class.

First prize winner was Clive Dyson; second, Kip Butler, and third, Douglas Bullock.

Each of the 35 students in the fair displayed his own scientifically constructed exhibit for judges George Reid of Kelowna Junior High School and Bill Kane of Wainwright and Hirtle.

The winning exhibit was ingenious. Clive Dyson used a small alarm clock constructed with a furnace, thermostat. When the alarm rang on a frosty morning, counterweights would set the thermostat to warm up the house. The Butler exhibit was a miniature jet powered car and the third prize winner constructed a working artesian well model.

The boys will be accompanied to Seattle by Father Goddard, school principal, who said they'll likely spend the best part of the week touring the fair grounds.

Mormon Group Will Sing Here Monday

"The Elders Four", a folk singing group composed of four missionaries of the "Mormon Church", are presently touring British Columbia and will be in Kelowna on Monday at the Centennial Hall at 7:00 p.m.

The four singers are just a part of the 10,000 young men between the ages of 19 and 25 years who interrupt their vocation or schooling for two years to teach their faith.

Composing the "Elders Four" are D. Gary Rogers, 19; David G. Holmberg, 19; Theodore Thain, 21; and F. Brent Clark, 21.

Rogers attended University in Hawaii previous to his voluntary missionary work. While in Hawaii, Elder Rogers entertained professionally as a singer. He will perform now on the band, and as the comedian of the group.

From Salt Lake City, Utah, Holmberg brings his talents of voice and the guitar. This young man loves to sing and tell the Mormon story in song. Elder Thain is from Salt Lake City. Elder Clark, of Cardston, Alberta, blends his guitar and rich bass voice with the "Elders Four" to round out the foursome.

RICHTER GUEST SPEAKER

B.C. Minister of Agriculture Frank Richter will be guest speaker at the Okanagan and Boundary Associated Boards of Trade quarterly general meeting at 7 p.m. May 2 in the Cawston Community Hall in Cawston. Cawston Board of Trade will conduct an orchard tour before the dinner for any early guests.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY

By DAVE SHEPHERD

EASTER! Spring! Blossoms! Picnics! Blue skies and warm sun! Flowers! Birds singing!

Do not all these things go together?

Are they not descriptive of the year's loveliest season?

Like the Resurrection of Christ, ruler of all mankind, Easter is for those who LIVE, for life returns to earth after winter's sleep.

This quiet return of life sends one into a new world of fantasy, wonder and awe.

No man can deny the existence of God at Easter, for no man can yet explain the entire cycle of life or all that it implies, though it has been tried through the centuries.

All our scientific achievements, all our study of theology, all our knowledge about life are but insignificant and minute grains of sand on a huge beach when they are compared to the wonders of nature.

I do not mean to preach, for I am not a preacher.

But I do ask that those who read this take themselves to a quiet brook, a magnificent mountainside, a grassy meadow or a lakeside beach and just LOOK. Look, listen and smell. Use all senses.

Then tell yourself there is no Supreme Being. If you can.

In such surroundings, away from the hustle and bustle of the city, one can, if one so desires, hear God at work.

And I'll tell you another thing.

WHEN YOU ARE CONTEMPLATING all these things, you will never ONCE think of nuclear bombs, civil war, money, material possessions, the arms race or YOURSELF.

You will dream wonderful dreams, think wonderful thoughts, realize how fortunate you are to be alive and come away refreshed in soul and mind.

Spring does that to a person.

And just before you go home to face life once more, just lift up your head to the sky where perspective will place you in your rightful position—small and insignificant—and renew your faith in mankind.

You will undoubtedly think the same as the others who have done this.

GOD'S IN HIS HEAVEN. All's right with the world.

Building Addition Set For Winfield Fire Hall

Winfield is to get a $3,000.00 addition to its Fire Hall.

The second annual meeting of Winfield Fire Protection District, attended by 32 people Tuesday night voted to build an indoor training area with 800 square feet of floor space on the south side of the present hall.

The volunteer firemen will donate the time and money to finish the interior.

Financing arrangements for the addition were left to the discretion of the Trustees.

The meeting also wholeheartedly endorsed the Trustees' action in entering a mutual aid pact with other fire brigades for instant co-ordinated help on a major fire.

CHIEF REPORTS
Winfield Volunteer Fire Brigade responded to some 27 calls during the year which amounted to a total of $12,000. Fire Chief Ben Crooks said in his annual report.

He said the amount of damage was $70,000 less than in 1961 but the number of alarms increased by eight.

The Winfield brigade was busy and active in their training program, holding 39 practices, covering all evolutions of fire fighting.

Chief Crooks said that fires attended during the year proved that the new equipment passed at the last annual meeting was "indeed a necessity."

WATER PROBLEM

He said that water is still a problem in some cases. There are only two stand-pipes located in the area which were installed at the expense of the homeowners surrounding them.

He recommended that others organize and install hydrants or stand-pipes in their areas—"one or two a year and the district would soon be covered."

Total number of hours put in by the brigade for both fire-fighting and practices was 2,236. Chief Crooks expressed his thanks to the public "for their co-operation with fires."

OTHER BUSINESS

A street-lighting resolution was introduced by Winfield Farmers' Institute.

A similar motion was passed at the last annual meeting but was later set aside by the Controller of Water Rights.

A Government-supervised poll last August failed to gain the required two-thirds majority. Chairman Mey Kawano ruled that proper notice of such an important and controversial question must be given.

He accepted it as notice of motion only and set Monday, May 28 for a special general meeting to consider the street lighting resolution.

Trustees Ralph Berry and Jack Green were re-elected for three year terms.

May Day Plans In Full Swing

Rutland May Day committee met Thursday to further plan for the celebration May 20 and 21.

There was a good representative attendance of community organizations, and much progress made.

At least two bands will be in attendance, Rutland High School band and Vernon Girls Pipe Band from Vernon.

The pet parade will be staged on the Monday morning as usual and there may be as many as four sets of Maypole dancers.

A midway will be in operation, and a food committee set up to arrange for the catering, the members being Mrs. L. Touville, Mrs. R. Holcain, Mrs. W. E. Barber, Mrs. E. Pumphrey and Mrs. Birt Shewler.

Little League, SOKM league baseball games are lined up. Seamus will be the visiting team in that league.

No representative was present from the Rovers Softball Club, so no word is yet available on their tournament.

The Fire Brigade, as usual, is handling the parade arrangements. Names of the candidates from the Elementary schools for the little May Queen will be released after the Easter holidays.

CITY MAN IN OTTAWA

Oldrich Vaclavik, president of Commonwealth Film Productions Limited, in company with H. S. Harrison Smith of Kelowna returned from meeting with government representatives in Ottawa this week.

Main purpose of the Ottawa meetings were to present a brief on the Canadian feature film industry and to stimulate the interest of the government in the production of Canadian feature length entertainment films.

Mr. Vaclavik described the entertainment film as the "most important and influential medium of communication in the world today."

In his discussions with government officials at all levels, he emphasized the fact that scores of nations in the world today regard the entertainment film as an essential means of presenting a national image to the world. "Australia has been producing entertainment films since 1907," he said. "Japan produces almost twice as many films as Hollywood each year. Its not just good business. The entertainment film is an important tool of government at the national and international level."

EXPORT LICENCES

Among the proposals contained in the Commonwealth Films brief was one asking the government to arrange for export licences to permit the distribution of Canadian films in countries presently imposing restrictions on foreign motion pictures.

Temperance President Tells Of Drink Problem

Mrs. W. S. Watson, national president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union described drinking as "a headache in the factory, a handicap in the highway, a hindrance in the neighborhood, a heartache in the home."

The WCTU president, on the Okanagan leg of a 10-months tour which has taken her across Canada for a survey in connection with the group, met with local members at the Ellis St. home of Mrs. J. Reimer this week. She also spoke at the Seventh-day Adventist Church in Rutland.

Mrs. Watson said that the public is not aware of the magnitude of the alcohol problem or there would be more general concern and a greater determination to find some constructive solution.

One of the most serious effects is the increased drinking among women and young people, a condition which did not exist five years ago. There is developing a social conformity to drinking which could be dangerous in every phase of life and which is already proving disastrous," she said.

ONE OF THE BOYS

"Intensive advertising of liquor interests has built up the deceptive illusion that to be socially acceptable one must drink."

"Why does the drink have to be alcoholic to be graceful? And does the serving of cocktails make an uncouth hostess graceful?" she queried.

Mrs. Watson said the WCTU is promoting a factual scientific study of the problem coupled with a challenge to social and Christian responsibility "for what is regarded as the greatest social problem of our day."

"In this fertile Okanagan Valley, it would be desirable to make greater use of natural fruit juices, instead of cocktails," she concluded.

The national leader also addressed the 52nd annual convention of the Kamloops-Okanagan district WCTU meeting in Kamloops.

Among the new slate of officers is Mrs. R. Smith of Kelowna, elected second vice-president.

Mrs. I. Harvie Funeral Held

Funeral services were held this afternoon from St. David's Presbyterian Church following the death this week of one of its ardent workers and members, Mrs. Irene Rebecca Harvie, aged 91.

T. Stoddard Cowan officiated. Interment followed in Kelowna cemetery.

Mrs. Harvie, born in Walton, Nova Scotia was educated there and taught school in the district for several years before marrying in at the turn of the century.

Harvie operated a general store in Centre-Burlington for many years until Mr. Harvie died in 1936. Mrs. Harvie went to Huntsport to reside with her father until he died in 1943. She travelled to Kelowna to reside with her brother and his wife, Capt. and Mrs. A. W. McCulloch.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Gladys Sandford of Comstock, two nieces, Mrs. Fred Milligan and Mrs. Bert Marshall of Kelowna, one nephew, William McCulloch of Trail, and two grandchildren, William Sandford in Germany and Phyllis Rhode Island.

Palbearers at the service were Fred Milligan, Bert Marshall, Edwain Gregory, Alex Hing, Frank Williams and Norman Vix.

Immortality Is The Key Resurrection Is A Door

This day, between Good Friday and Easter, is a good time to ask ourselves: "What is the Easter message about?"

Many people think of it as having to do, primarily, with what happens to us after we die. If you listen carefully to conversations on this subject and to songs about it, you can detect a conglomeration, or even a confusion, of ideas and sentiments. Also you will notice a feeling that it is, for some undisclosed reason, not good to challenge any of those ideas or sentiments, and even worse to suggest that thinking on the subject should be consistent.

In our Western culture there are two main sources of ideas—the Greeks and the Hebrews. While other influences are many and sometimes important it is these two that show up most when we analyze our thinking about our encounter with death. The brevity required by this editorial cannot do justice either to our thinking or to its sources. Nevertheless I shall try to make one distinction between the Greek way and the Hebrew-Christian way.

Let me put it briefly this way: Christian thinking based on the Bible is focussed not on immortality but on resurrection. I think I could go even farther and say that Christians are not interested in immortality but only in resurrection.

People who include immortality ideas in their thinking use such expressions as these: freed from the body, the imperishable soul, spiritual survival, death is nothing to be feared, death is an illusion, there is no death, this life is a dream, in death we awaken to the real life. Such thinking contains a resentment against the human body and its relationships from doing too much damage to the precious soul until that eagerly-awaited moment when the soul shall escape from the body's clutches into a rapturous 'spiritual' existence. What kind of existence that will be is never clearly stated. The sentimental tone in which the word 'spiritual' is spoken forbids the asking of such mundane questions. The best I have been able to do in understanding this view is to compare that existence to the existence of an idea in a mind.

Anyone who has allowed the Bible to have its full influence on his mind will know that for those of the Hebrew-Christianity way this kind of existence has no attraction—indeed may even be repulsive. Such a person might even say he'd rather be completely destroyed than have such an existence. But this does not mean that he is uninterested in surviving death. On the contrary he is very much interested in it, but he insists that survival must come up to certain standards or annihilation would be better.

The first thing to be noted about the Biblical way of thinking is that death is acknowledged to be very real—dreadfully real. There is no illusion about its being a fact; and the spinning of sentimental theories about the survival of the soul does not change the fact. Confronted by the death of a loved one, we are faced with a fact that cannot be changed, but only accepted with all the shock of it. Communication is suddenly impossible; a whole set of human relationships has gone. Not only the loved one is gone; a part of the bereaved is gone too—gone irrevocably. No doctrines about death being an illusion have any relevance whatever; and if offered only make the suffering more severe.

To such a bereaved person there is only one kind of survival that matters, and that is a survival (not of any part of the self, such as the soul) but of the whole person. That wholeness must be such that the person can know that "I am I", and "You are you", and "we" can know and be known, love and be loved, serve and be served.

This is the only kind of survival of death consistent with the main stream of Biblical thinking. In the ancient creed of the Church it is described by the expression "resurrection of the body". Many in our day find this expression difficult for they think of the body as distinct from the mind and the emotions. Such distinctions are not encountered in Biblical thinking which affirms that these parts have no reality separately, but that there is a unity of personhood in which there is thinking and feeling and willing. This unity, which we might call person or personality, is, in Elizabethan language, called "body". We have a few uses of that word that still show that old meaning. For example, in the word "somebody" and in the phrase "if a body meet a body" we mean the whole entity of personhood.

It is this total entity that must experience resurrection; any lesser kind of survival would not be survival at all. This is the kind of survival (or victory) that the Christian Easter proclaims—the kind that God in raising Jesus Christ from the dead made or created. It is not that he changed death's reality into unreality. It is rather that by His own Reality and Love and Creative Power He did a deed even greater than His original creation. It is a 'new creation', even more wonderful than the former one. As the first was a gift, even more the second. There is no way to earn or deserve either one. Having received the former as a gift, we can receive the second only as a free, but costly, gift offered through the whole gift of the whole Jesus Christ—His life, teaching, suffering, death, resurrection and risen life. In Him and through Him God opened to His people the resurrection of the whole entity, the person, to a life (with Him and with each other) of mutual knowing and loving and serving.

Whatever we need for that kind of life He will create anew, and for that act of new creation He will not be dependent on the dust of previous flesh.

The Easter message affirms, not the immortality of the soul, but the "resurrection of the body"—that is He gives joyous victory to the whole person.—Rev. Elliott H. Birdsell, First United Church, Kelowna.

Sermonette And A Sty

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Now that the effectiveness of seat belts has been proved beyond any question, one added fact of vast importance is being proved, too:

Seat belts don't help a bit unless they are fastened. "Don't get caught dead sitting on your seat belt."

End of today's sermonette.

Dear Dr. Molner: My five-year-old daughter has had a sty on her eye for a month. The doctor gave her some ointment but after two weeks she still has the sty. What should be done and what causes a sty?—MRS. M.G.

A sty is an infection of the eyelid. When a sty ruptures, another one can be started from the infectious material which escapes.

Hence the avoidance of rubbing, and the use of an antibiotic ointment are the logical treatments. Usually a sty runs its course in less than a month.

If in your case the "sty" hasn't changed, it may not be one, but perhaps a cyst or chalazion or small tumor. It is a minor operation to remove these. So I'd say go see your doctor again now.

Dear Dr. Molner: A diabetic of some years standing has been changed from insulin to pills—four a day. He is perfectly well, but his eyes are bothering him and his glasses should be changed.

The blood sugar is about 140. How high may it be safely?—MRS. W.T.

In some instances, especially if the insulin dose is not too high, say not over 30 units, suitable cases of diabetes can be controlled by pills instead of insulin.

However, many diabetics of long duration may find this will not work and will have to return to insulin.

The blood sugar figure of 140 depends, for its significance, on the time at which it was taken. After a meal, that level is considered satisfactory. Taken when fasting, the figure would be regarded as a borderline high.

One can't say how high a blood sugar may go "safely." The figure isn't the whole story. Other factors tending toward acidosis, as fluid loss or excessive loss of sugar and minerals in the urine, have considerable significance.

By the way, that changing eye situation should be carefully analyzed. It may have been time for new glasses anyway—but with diabetes it's best to be careful and sure rather than careless and sorry. With diabetes, eye changes can be important.

Dear Sir: Every evening on retiring I experience considerable discomfort (heartburn?)

whenever I lie on my right side. It seems to exist for several hours after eating. Occasionally food has a tendency to regurgitate. When I lie on my left side there is no discomfort. Coffee and highly seasoned foods aggravate the trouble. Can this be ulcers?—L.T.H.

Yes, sir, it might be. But it might also be a hiatal hernia. My suggestion: have X-rays.

NOTE TO J.B.: There are quite a few new surgical techniques for the restoration of hearing. They can help some people. While your own ear specialist may not be a surgeon, get his opinion concerning an operation before spending the money to dash off to one of the big medical centres.

Country Turmoil, Premier Is Calm

By JAMES K. NESBITT
VICTORIA—In all the years I've been following politics, and writing about politicians, I don't think I've ever come across such political hysteria as has wrapped itself about us at the present time.

The whole country is in turmoil, and British Columbia is in double turmoil. We're expecting a federal election, and Premier Bennett says there'll be a provincial election, too, if the oppositionists don't behave themselves and co-operate with the government, instead of throwing logs of obstruction in the government's path.

The Prime Minister and his henchmen in Ottawa say that unless the opposition doesn't stop obstructing there'll be an election, and at the same time Mr. Diefenbaker plays coy with the date.

We'll always have this nonsense, of course, until the politicians are pinned down. In the Constitution, as to when there must be an election—a hard-and-fast date as in the United States.

Conservative MPs talk about opposition obstruction in the House of Commons, but a good many of them are running here, there, everywhere, electioneering, when they should be paying attention to their duties in the federal capital.

Premier Bennett's doing his own kind of electioneering; he's visiting small places to get the feel of the people, he says. He walks main streets, pumping hands, hearing people praising him, telling them what a fine job his government does.

It's pretty difficult, I'd say, to get the true feel of the people; many a one will praise you to your face, and cut your throat behind your back. It's nasty, but it's true, and it has taken me many years to realize it, but I think we should remain cheerful and trusting, withal. Especially is it true in politics. It's nice to pump the Premier's hand and slap his back, and tell him what a good fellow he is—something to tell your grandchildren—and then, when you get into a polling booth, to vote against him—that gives one a feeling of terrific power. "That'll show the so-and-so," is the mutter as the polling booth is left.

The Premier, however, isn't so pessimistic as this, on the surface anyway. He came back from a fact-finding tour to tell a press conference: "I've found people on the street more friendly to me than at any other time in the 21 years I've been an MLA. In the 10 years I've been Premier."

I asked him if he had seen that Gen. McNaughton had called Prime Minister Diefenbaker a dictator; that's what so many people call our Premier, you know.

Mr. Bennett laughed merrily, said: "I don't mind what they called me," and he quoted the old ditty about "sticks and stones." He said it's only when people know they're losing an argument that they resort to kicking and scratching and name-calling.

The Premier said he's no dictator, that his government doesn't dictate, and that he'll accept no dictatorships from anyone, but will plot and steer a course that will work out to the benefit of everybody.

Then he put on his hat and stepped jauntily forth into the spring sunshine, bound on another fact-finding tour of the province's main streets. It's called getting down to the grass roots.

Castro Won That Battle —But War Still Goes On

WASHINGTON (AP) — For Fidel Castro April 17 was a great day.

Castro — and communism — won that day. The United States lost. But that was only a battle. The war goes on.

One year now has passed, or will have next Tuesday, since the battle.

Castro had come into power 27½ months earlier. For two long years before that he had carried on a guerrilla war against the corrupt tyranny of Fulgencio Batista, a man who had been given considerable U.S. aid in the name of anti-communism.

In those 27½ months, Castro had seized the vast holdings of foreigners valued in the billions, promising to pay with 20-year bonds bearing four-per-cent interest.

He had begun a vast land reform program, established industrial and agricultural co-operatives. He set up schools, inaugurated slum clearance programs, drove the gamblers, dope peddlers and prostitutes into hiding—or into more legitimate activities.

At long last the people felt they were free. The hungry ate happily most of the blooded breeding stock of the vast, foreign-owned ranches.

Castro did something else, too. He established a 300,000-man militia force and armed them initially with left-over U.S. equipment.

With increased guidance from known Communists, he moved steadily to the left. In the plush Havana hotels, once swarming with tourists, Russian and Red Chinese trade missions appeared.

Steadily, the $1,000,000,000 annual trade between the United States and Cuba dwindled as the U.S. government, more and more convinced of Castro's anti-American, pro-Communist attitudes, applied economic pressures, especially by denying Cuba access to the American sugar market.

Some Cubans who had once supported Castro began accusing him of betraying the revolution.

Castro's militia stamped out opposition. At least 639 people—the known count—were stood against walls and shot.

Out of Cuba came doctors, lawyers, agronomists, salesmen, mechanics, managers and engineers. In time, about 250,000 refugees accumulated in Miami.

The United States, through its Central Intelligence Agency, began recruiting anti-Castro Cubans.

In the jungles of Guatemala and elsewhere, Cuban liberation force, 1,500 strong, took shape. They were given U.S. arms and trained by U.S. agents.

But all was not well within the anti-Castro forces. Some former Batista adherents were given command functions. They wrangled with those who had opposed Batista.

Among the refugees there was no unity—and still isn't. There was total absence of a political program from Cuba, one which might draw Cubans away from Castro.

And then it was April 17, the day the U.S.-backed forces were to bring the overthrow of the new tyrant.

Two days before Second World War B-29 bombers had attacked Castro's airfields, knocking out four of Castro's U.S.-made T-34 training jobs.

Now a couple of rust bucket cargo ships were standing off the Bay of Pigs with the main invasion force. This beach had a single road leading to a junction that spread into the heart of Cuba. The single road was flanked by mangrove swamps on both sides.

These 1,500 men had come to do battle with Castro's tank-equipped forces, well supported by artillery. They landed at a point that was quickly and easily reachable by Castro's reserve forces.

The fact that an invasion was imminent was not secret. The refugees talked freely. U.S. newspapers printed stories and pictures of men training.

Apparently the invaders assumed the Cuban people would rise and join them. There was a flaw in the assumption. Nobody had told the people the invasion was actually in progress and the time to act was now.

Post-invasion reports indicated the invasion ships weren't even loaded for combat. One ship carried the bulk of the invaders' armor, communications equipment and anti-tank guns. It was sunk.

These same reports similarly indicated the necessity of establishing air supremacy over the landing area was ignored and provisions were not made for over-the-beach supply.

Castro simply rolled his tanks and artillery into position and plastered the invaders. His remaining armed jet trainers swept the skies clean of opposition and then concentrated on the ground troops.

Only one thing could have saved the invasion force: U.S. jets armed with rockets and jellyed g a s o l i n e, both effective against tanks, ground personnel and artillery. They never appeared.

A few of the invaders escaped the deadly beach. Of the total force, 1,214 were captured. The others were killed.

Pro-Castro Cubans were elated. The "colossus of the north" had suffered an ignominious defeat. In nation after nation there were anti-U.S. demonstrations.

After 1,179 of the prisoners received 30-year sentences April 7 for treason, Castro offered to free them in exchange for payment of $62,000,000, ranging from $25,000 up to $500,000 each for the three leaders. A committee of Cuban exiles was formed to meet with the Cuban premier.

In the wake of the invasion, arms shipments from Russia, Czechoslovakia and Red China rose to $100,000,000 worth.

The economic well-being of Cuba was tied directly to that of the Communist bloc in a series of barter deals in which Cuba was to swap sugar for needed goods.

In the United States there were charges that there had been a grievous breakdown in intelligence operations. The three top men in the CIA later retired, although everybody involved insisted the retirements had nothing to do with Cuba.

Meanwhile, President Kennedy embargoed all trade with Cuba, excepting only food and medicine.

Mrs. X lives in a one-bedroom apartment with her son who is now 15 years old. The two of them share the bedroom. I casually mentioned it was about time her son had a little privacy. She replied "Oh Buddy is just a baby."

Now you and I both know, Ann, that a 15-year-old boy should not be sharing a bedroom with ANY female — mother, sister, maid or friend. Please print this letter. She reads your column every day. A FRIEND

Dear Friend: You are absolutely right and I hope the woman more information her doctor will gladly fill her in on the details.

Dear Readers: The following letter is from a South African reader. It is a poignant reminder that human problems are the same the world over.

Dear Ann: I am 23 and miserably married to a deadhead of 25. My family expected me to wed a man with social position if not money. I dated a young doctor steadily but we quarreled and left for Johannesburg where I led a wild, carefree life.

I got into financial trouble but was too proud to let my family know. I left Johannesburg under a cloud and came here to Durban where I was determined to settle down. I met a very quiet chap who seemed intelligent and devoted. He paid my Johannesburg debts and I felt deeply obligated. Heaven knows why, but we were married in a civil ceremony.

Now I realize I made the biggest mistake of my life. We live in separate worlds. He is astonishingly limited in scope and interests and I am ashamed to introduce him to my family and former friends. I've tried to make this marriage work but the thought of having his child gives me the horrors. He's been decent to me and I can't just walk out I know I'll never be happy with him. I need your advice.

THOROUGHLY CONFUSED

Dear Confused: Trouble is universal and so are the basic principles of decency.

You married this man. He may not be a red hot intellectual with a multiplicity of interests, but he has integrity and he's your husband. Stay with him and make the best of it. A girl with your temperament (and history) would probably do worse if she were free, not better.

Dear Ann Landers: Maybe you will think this petty but my husband and I would like an answer regardless.

Two weeks ago a new man came to work in my husband's department. Once we were the "new people" in town and we were very lonely. We invited the couple to dinner. Our home here is being remodeled so we agreed to meet them at a lovely steakhouse.

We were surprised to find they had brought along their two children. We have children, too, but we left them at home, since this was to be an adult get-acquainted party — or so we thought.

Their kids took over the evening conversation and my husband was boiling. They ordered a three-course dinner and left three-fourths of the food on their plates. The bill was $32.

Were these people justified in bringing their children? Do you feel the parents should have allowed their youngsters to order expensive adult dinners?

V AND L

Dear V and L: You should not criticize these people for bringing their children. They probably did not understand the invitation.

Allowing youngsters to take over the conversation is out of line, however, and so was the ordering bit. Every mother knows approximately how much food her children can consume. She should have ordered smaller cuts for them or divided one dinner in two.

New Charter Is Presented To P.T.A.

The hall was decorated with Easter bunnies and chicks.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Emerson of Omak, Washington were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McCartney over the weekend.

E. Kelowna W.I. Finalize Plans For Conference

The regular monthly meeting of the East Kelowna Women's Institute was held in the Community Hall with the president in the chair and fourteen members present.

The meeting opened with the singing of the Institute Ode. The minutes were read and the financial report given, as was a report on the sick and visiting. Included in the correspondence was a letter from the Hospital Auxiliary expressing thanks for donations received, and a letter from Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Mann thanking the members for their help and cooperation during their stay at the Community Hall. A donation was voted to the Cancer fund, and the hall rent paid.

The important item for discussion was the South Okanagan and Similkameen Conference which will take place on May 5. Plans were finalized, and the registration will take place between 9 and 10 p.m. when coffee will be served. Resolutions to be presented were dealt with and the members expressed their thanks to the B.C. Tree Fruits for their gift of lapel tags for the conference. Conveners for the luncheon are Mrs. G. MacDonnell and Mrs. E. Steinke.

The annual plant sale was then discussed and the date was set for Tuesday, May 8th at 2 p.m. There will be a good selection of plants and shrubs and a display of home cooking, and afternoon tea will be served.

The meeting adjourned and was served by the hostesses, Mrs. G. MacDonnell and Mrs. W. Hince.

Rutland W.I. Choose Delegate To South Okanagan W.I. Rally

Rutland Women's Institute is to be held at the home of Mrs. George Cross on May 9th. A visitor at the meeting was a former member, Mrs. I. Massey, now a resident of Dinsdale, Alberta, and spending a holiday at the home of her father Mr. A. Hugel.

Mrs. N. McLaughlin, the president, was in the chair, and a good deal of business was transacted. The Institute voted $5.00 toward the construction of the proposed community signboard, and Mrs. R. Gunner was chosen as delegate to the South Okanagan Women's Institute Rally, being held this year at East Kelowna, on May 5th.

Mrs. W. Barber reported on the recent Health Centre meeting which she attended, with the president, as Institute representatives. The subject was fully discussed, the majority of members being sympathetic to the proposal. The Institute members felt that they should be represented on the advisory board, having always been interested in the health of the community, and responsible for sponsoring the first "well baby clinics" in the district. The members arranged to aid the forthcoming Hospital Fair, on May 17th, by baking date loaves for the afternoon tea.

After the business meeting the members were shown a number of fine colored slides of local scenes but mainly of Holland and Belgium, taken by Mrs. Paul Hoebergs on a visit to her former home in the Netherlands last summer. Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. W. E. Barber, at the close of the meeting. The next meeting

Vernon's Men Shoppers Now Fashion Conscious

By JIM BILLINGSLEY
VERNON (Staff) — Men it seems must take a back seat during the Easter season to the ladies who are always fashion conscious at this time of year.

But unlike the ladies, when men shop for clothes they know what they want.

Unfortunately they are not economical buyers as a rule. Women will travel 10 miles to save 10 cents. Men establish themselves at a good haberdashery and remain faithful customers. They will pay a good price for what they want, and they come away satisfied and sometimes well dressed.

Men no longer accept just anything from the rack, as a recent survey of Vernon men's stores proved. They now want the latest style in suits, topcoats, shirts and shoes, not to mention accessories, according to Vernon men's stylists.

The train of thought was possibly started by the Italians. A few years after the Second World War Italy became to men's fashions what Paris and New York is to ladies'. London soon copied but called it the "continental look". New York followed with the Italian style which it really is. Two years later the fashion hit conservative Eastern Canada.

About two years after that it arrived on the West Coast. To be well groomed a man must consider every aspect of his toilet.

Heather tones and drab green as well as dark browns were in vogue during the fall. They are still on the spring list, and lightweight materials are foremost in any wardrobe.

One of the smartest styles to hit Vernon shops in suiting is Milano. It has side vents, lower slant welt pocket, semi peak lapels, cutaway front and can be worn with a cuff on the sleeve. The slax are usually plain front and tapered to a narrow cuff, but one pleat can be worn. It's a junior executive model, a button down Oxford shirt without cufflinks, complements the outfit. Color: White, it's always correct.

The tie should blend not contrast, according to those who know, and it must be the slim narrow type. Tie tacks are reasonable and add greatly to comfort.

A more extreme style is Ivy. Made popular by the Ivy League college students of the Eastern United States, it actually became known on London's Bond Street more than 15 years ago.

It's a high-style university type suit, with hook vent, lower pockets, natural shoulder, full waist and soft construction. It should be worn with extreme caution. If you're not five-foot, 10-inches tall and slim, forget it. You won't do the garment justice and you'll probably look like a sack of potatoes.

Socks should also blend with the suit. In fact if they can be matched, which they now can, it's better.

Shoes are very important. With the Ivy style a loafer is acceptable, but a three hole lace job is preferable. With green shades, black should be worn. With the deep browns, black is the best color, but you can get away with a dark brown if you wish.

Cuff links are an important part of men's dress. Gone are the days when an entire wardrobe consisted of one pair to be worn for all occasions. Now, the well dressed male has at least six pairs in silver or gold to complement other jewelry. Never wear cuff links with Ivy style though.

A button down single sleeve is almost mandatory. But 'links can be worn with almost any other type suit including sport jackets.

Topcoats are smart this season. Three quarter length dress tops with set in shoulder and raglan back are available in Vernon. They are the latest and definitely comfortable for the man who must drive a car in a coat. They're longer than the car-coat, but they're dressy and casual.

To top off "esquire's" ensemble one should wear a hat. So many of the younger set against any type of head-gear, but nevertheless if you want to be truly well dressed it is necessary.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

W. H. Christie Funeral Held

VERNON (Staff) — Funeral services were held this week for Wilfred Harry Christie, 45, who died suddenly at his home April 13.

Mr. Christie was the coach of the Luckies, Vernon senior baseball team. He died shortly after the Friday night practice, last weekend.

Funeral services were held from the Vernon Funeral Home Chapel, with Rev. C. E. Reeve officiating. Burial in the Legion Plot, Vernon Cemetery.

EASTER RIDE

VERNON (Staff) The Vernon Riding Club will hold an Easter ride, Monday. Those participating in the ride are asked to meet at the clubhouse at 1:30 p.m.

CHILD DROWNS

NAKUP (CP) — An inquest will be held Tuesday into the death of Dahl Andrews Perkins, 22-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Perkins, who was drowned Thursday when his father's car rolled into the water. Mr. Perkins had left the child in the car while working on repair job on the ferry at Needles.

WISH THE POST OFFICE would leave well enough alone.

The moved letter box and stamp machine from the corner to the side of the Allison Hotel on 30th Street has got us into a heap of trouble.

Last week we said Ald. John Davis' secretary dumped the day's outgoing mail into the storm gutter as she failed to notice the change. His three secretaries have been in a flap ever since the item appeared and have denied any knowledge of such a nutty stunt. So, with apologies to Mrs. Carol Kashuba, Arlene Barager and Mrs. Evelyn Green, we launch an investigation of the gutter.

Someone used the storm grating as a mail depository . . . but who? (P.S. our mail box spy has been sacked.)

POLICE MAGISTRATES GET CALLED some weird and wonderful things, and this week was no exception with Magistrate Frank Smith. Asked to explain why he was speeding in a 30 mile-an-hour zone in the city, the accused man began: " . . . Well your highness. . . " This is by no means the the highest rank Magistrate Smith has received. Says he was called "your majesty" once.

TAKE OUR WORD FOR it, RCMP are clamping down on speeding motorists, especially on the Okanagan Landing Road, thanks to radar. Every day this week there's been a steady stream of offenders in police court.

GORDON O'NEILL, MIXOLOGIST AT the Allison wants his name in print. "Diefenbaker, Fulton, Williston, Bennett . . . they all get their names in the newspapers . . . how about the working man." Okay!

ONE REALTOR IN VERNON was hot on his toes this week winning and dining a business magnate and his wife from the Coast in the Okanagan for lakeshore property to eventually build a retreat from the big city. Building plans call for a house in the neighborhood of $60,000. Wife calls it "our summer cottage." Some cottage!

NOW THAT SUMMER IS just a breath away, people are already looking up places where they can't afford to go on vacation.

LES MacLEAN FEDERAL NDP candidate for Okanagan-Revelstoke in the forthcoming election has come up with the first bright pre-campaign quote: "I agree with both the Conservatives and Liberals," he says as one waits for immediate clarification. "Liberals say Conservatives are no good . . . Conservatives say Liberals are no good . . . both are right of course."

NOTICE

Toward the dawn of Easter Sunday Mary Magdalene and "the other Mary" visited Jesus' tomb. "And behold, there was a great earthquake: for a shining angel descended and rolled away the stone before the tomb, saying, 'Fear not ye... He is risen.'—Matthew 28:1-7.

The two Marys, in fear and joy, ran to tell His disciples. Suddenly Christ appeared before them, saying, "Hail!" They fell at His feet and worshipped, as Jesus told them to go and tell His disciples to go to Galilee, where they also would see Him soon.—Matthew 28:8-10.

Meanwhile, the terrified guards before the tomb fled to tell the news to the Jewish council at Jerusalem. The chief priests and elders bribed the soldiers to tell the people that during the night Christ's disciples had come and stolen his body away.—Matthew 28:11-15.

On the mountain in Galilee, as He had promised, Jesus met His disciples. "Go ye therefore," He said, "and make disciples of all nations... And lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world."—Matthew 28:16-20.

More Contacts Made Between Various Faiths

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—A lot of neighborly visiting is going on these days among top Christian leaders.

It involves just about all branches of the faith, and many countries. In some cases, the friendly get-togethers have come after centuries of mutual snubbing. Some of the contacts have been the first of their kind in history.

The roster of high-level calling part of a many-sided swing toward furthering Christian unity, follows a criss-cross pattern, including:

Between Rome and Protestantism; between Protestantism and Eastern Orthodoxy; between Eastern Orthodoxy and Rome; between churches of the West and the Communist East.

At the Vatican, Pope John has hung up a wide "welcome" sign, playing host to a variety of Protestant and Orthodox prelates.

WORK TOGETHER

"We are brothers," he often tells them.

"We must learn to work together," is the frequent reaction of guests.

Latest of such visits was that of Rev. Dr. A. C. Craig, moderator of the Church of Scotland, considered the "mother church" of all English-speaking Presbyterianism.

The recent succession of unprecedented calls on the Pope by prominent leaders of various communions includes Archbishop Iakovos, head of the Orthodox Church in North and South America; Rev. Dr. Geoffrey Francis Fisher, as Archbishop of Canterbury, as spiritual leader of the world's 40,000,000 Anglicans; Lutheran Bishop Otto Dibelius, a foremost figure among the world's 72,000,000 Lutherans, and Rt. Rev. Arthur Lichtenberger, prelate of the Protestant (Lutheran) Church in the United States.

The visits constituted the first such meetings between the Pope and other church leaders in centuries.

In a similar fashion, leaders of most major Protestant branches have paid calls on Eastern Orthodoxy's ecumenical patriarch, Archbishop Athenagoras of Istanbul, primate of the world's 250,000,000 Orthodox Christians.

PAPAL HOSPITALITY

Besides the papal hospitality, there is also increasing traffic across the Iron Curtain. Russian Orthodox churchmen, for the first time, last December joined and took part in the World Council of Churches General Assembly.

The papal encounters with various denominational leaders invariably have been described as warm, natural and friendly, without getting into doctrinal problems.

For example, indicating the spontaneous quality of the affairs, when Bishop Lichtenberger, in bright reddish cassock, was ushered into the Pope's study, the Pope rushed forward and clasped his shoulders, saying:

"Bravo! Bravo!"

Sacred Cantata At Westbank

Taking special parts in the sacred Cantata, "The Lord Is Risen" in Westbank United Church on Palm Sunday were soloists Mrs. Elsie Buzzell and taking the Bible reading, Mrs. Philip Wakefield, who also had singing parts. Mrs. Buzzell is the conductor of the 21-member choir.

Others having various parts were those in the quartet arrangement: Mrs. Bert Segust, Mrs. V. E. Norman, Miss Dorothy Norman, Mrs. Wakefield and Mrs. Buzzell. In the trio were Sharon Beel, Jean Bartie and Joan Norman.

Special music also will form a part of the Easter service on Sunday at 11:15 a.m.

Men of the congregation of Westbank United Church entertained at their annual banquet early this week, when they served hot casserole dishes at a supper held in Westbank Community Hall.

Discussions are proceeding concerning an addition to the church, to be used for Christian education purposes, and proceeds from the supper will go into that building fund.

AIDS SHUT-INS

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (CP)—A school-to-home inter-communication system installed by the Saskatchewan government telephones system was tried here as part of an experiment in keeping bed-ridden students abreast of their classwork. The pupil can hear the teacher and, by pressing a button, talk to the teacher.

Since the first Easter, the Cross has remained the one great and enduring symbol of Christianity because it best expresses the meaning of faith. Like a precious jewel, the Cross shines with many facets of truth.

† The Cross signifies the hope of faith. It reveals God's love for us in the sacrifice of His Son. It is our assurance of His promise of salvation.

† The Cross signifies the challenge of faith. It reveals God's love for all men which we must share. It is the motivation of Christian action.

† The Cross signifies the victory of faith. It is the pledge of God's loving purpose in saving the world. It is the source of peace.

What does the Cross mean to you? On Easter - this greatest festival of our Faith, will you come to Church and discover its message?

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

That Friday A Bad One As Far As Knox HS Goes

By KAY DAVIES
In a complete contrast with Good Friday was the Friday before it. It was a veritable Bad Friday. As well as being the 13th it was judgment day for Knox High. Yes, report cards again were forced upon us even though we really didn't want them.

Oh, well, next time we get them another school year will have ended. To further remind us of the nearing close of the year, the schedules for the June exams have already been posted. The counselors are busy with our various pink and blue sheets which decide our next year's courses. A big question facing seniors is, "Biology? Chemistry? Physics?" Decisions, decisions. How many others left home at 7 a.m. Monday merely to get to school early and catch a premature glimpse of the visitation? Joanne McMillan and Allen Sylvester were temporary members of Div. I for four days, while Div. I's Irene Longanecker and Larry Stansbury. To show them real Canadian hospitality we had a Canadian accent. Amazing!

never knew there was such a thing. WRONG SPELLING Questions that were asked them were, "Why do you spell Okanagan wrong in Washington?" (They don't know they weren't there.) "Do you know the capital of Canada?" (As a matter of fact, no.) "Ever heard of Flying Phil Gagliardi?" (Superman?)

the TEEN PAGE

TEEN TOWN TOPICS

By RUTH GILLESPIE
Well, there is not much news this week as all Teen Town members have been busy studying for exams and we have not had a council meeting for two weeks.

However, everyone is talking about the BCTA Conference in Penticton during the Easter holidays. There will be four dances with the "Hi-5's" from Salmon Arm and the "Class-mates" from Vancouver. There are many big events prepared for everyone. The "Best Teen Town award" set will be awarded at the conference. I will tell you more about it when it is over.

The "Dance Spectacular" which was held a few weeks ago was a huge success! A big thank you goes to all who worked for it.

Bret McLean and Fran Turk were the lucky and exhausted winners of the dance marathon and were awarded the $25 prize at the "Dance Spectacular." Congratulations Bret and Fran!

There was a Teen Town dance Thursday night in the Centennial Hall with the Pacers playing. It was a good dance as everyone was so relieved from the dread of exams.

POPS' POOL
LONDON (CP) — A British firm is to run a weekly sweepstakes based on forecasting positions among top-selling records in Britain. It says the pool will "combine the thrills of football pools with the excitement of the pop record."

BUSY READERS
NOTTINGHAM, England (CP) — Choirboys at an Anglican church have started their own magazine to read during the sermon. Now it is out — selling the official parish magazine. Commented the vicar, Rev. Ronald Lacey: "Competition is a healthy thing."

PRINGLE PARAGRAPHS

By Roland Whinton

NO PRIZE
George Pringle has been a hive of activity lately. Thirty Grade X's, teachers and friends held a bowling party in Kelowna recently. Heather Mackay won the girls' high single while boys' high single winner was Bob Small. Sandra Twiname and John Wilds took the dubious award for girls' and boys' low single, respectively. Peter Plunkett, Judy Orsi, Heather Mackay, Bud Madock, Fred Grey and Mr. Peters as team members were the high team. Gellert's Gutter Gerties was the low team.

The annual Spring Concert was held Friday night, April 6. The school choir harmonized during the singing of many old favorite songs. A serious religious drama, The Robe of the Galilean, was presented. The cast of 10, under the direction of Mr. Zubick, did an excellent job. Alan Sismey told of his ball game as only Alan can.

VERY FUNNY
This extremely funny gymnastic monologue was the contribution of the Athletic Council to the night. The final play was the humorous story of Mexican village life.

The play, entitled Sunday Costs Five Pesos, was directed by Mrs. Cameron and Mrs. Walker. The audience praised the concert highly, saying it was one of the best that the school has presented.

On April 11 a busload of eager "Pringle" students converged upon Penticton. They had come to see the Okanagan Drama Festival held April 10 to 14 in Penticton.

The "George Pringle Theatricals," directed by Mr. Zubick performed along with two other plays that night. We are proud of these 10 students who, in the words of the adjudicator, under capable direction made up for their lack of experience. Dr. Mitchell also praised the costumes and make-up.

NOT SNAKES AT ANY RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The reason he was shooting his rifle, Joseph Schevezus told the court Wednesday, was that he was hunting ducks and rabbits.

"In a tavern?" asked Judge T. A. Fontaine. He did not think this quite probable.

He ordered Schevezus to stand trial at the next criminal court sittings on charges of disturbing the peace.

RED CROSS
The George Pringle Jr. Red Cross has been very busy during the past few weeks. The members sent a contribution of $25 to headquarters in Vancouver making the total amount of money sent this year over $100.

This money goes to help unfortunate children at home and abroad. The members are going to visit the children in the Kelowna General Hospital this Saturday bearing Easter treats for the young patients.

The group is also planning to send a tape recording of the school choir to England or Australia as part of the "International Understanding" program.

SPECIAL ASSEMBLY
A special assembly was held last Tuesday at which the student body discussed plans for a newspaper next year. After this, the Grade XII students met to plan the graduation ceremonies this year. The graduation day will be June 1 this year.

Grade X is in charge of the dance and Grade XI of the banquet. The Awards Day, at which worthy students are given awards will be held June 8 this year. Students are given awards for scholarships, citizenship and athletic endeavors.

An Athletic Council dance is planned for the near future and the annual Spring Fashion Show, at which the girls model their sewing projects for the year, will also be held soon.

RUTLAND RUMBLINGS

By Adrien Rieger and Chrissie Shunter

Hi there! No earth-shaking news from RUS this week. Everyone was so busy making sure Trail had a good time last weekend, they were plum tucked out this week. The J. Lloyd Crowe High School band from Trail arrived Thursday evening.

The students were billeted in Rutland and Winfield homes and were entertained that evening by their various hosts.

Friday, our guests were given a tour of Kelowna which included a trip through the Sun-Hype plant and lunch at the park. They returned to the school to perform for our own students during period five.

They played two other performances, one Friday night, the other Saturday. Parties were held after each performance hosted by the Rutland High School and the George Elliot High School respectively.

After a slight delay on Sunday morning, the band finally started off on their return journey to Trail. Local band students are looking forward to

Mother Gets Fulton Apology

WINNIPEG (CP) — The mother of a schoolboy who was interviewed by the RCMP about a letter he wrote to a newspaper said today she has received a letter of apology from Justice Minister Fulton.

Alex (Sandy) Lamb, 15, was questioned about his political beliefs by an RCMP officer in an interview at Vincent Massey School last Feb. 19.

Mrs. Mildred Lamb complained to the justice minister. She received a letter of reply Wednesday night. It explained the delay of about seven weeks in answering was due to the fact that a report from the RCMP commissioner had been awaited and because the Lamb's had moved.

The boy's satirical letter to the Winnipeg Tribune attacked a right-wing viewpoint. It suggested that Santa Claus was a Communist because he distributed free gifts.

THREATENED BY RCMP
Mrs. Lamb reported that the officer told her son he would be branded as a security risk to any prospective employer unless he "forsook his parents' beliefs."

New Bishops Consecrated

ROME (AP) — Pope John consecrated as bishops the 12 cardinal deacons of the present College of Cardinals in a high-light ceremony of Holy Thursday—the day that Christ instituted the eucharist at the last supper in the presence of his 12 apostles.

The solemn rite took place in the patriarchal archbasilica of Saint John Lateran, the world's foremost Catholic church and the pope's church in his position as bishop of Rome.

All members of the college are now consecrated bishops—perhaps for the first time in the history of this senate of the church.
